Poem by Col. Baker.

[Col. Forney writes from Washington to the Philadelphia Press: "In my comments upon the lamented Col. Baker I stated that, in addition to his many other intellectual gifts, he was a fine poet—a mark that was received by many with surprise. I am permitted to publish one of his fugitive pieces, written by him twelve years ago, and now in possession of an intimate friend in this city. Observe how the last verse applies to his fate:"]

Dost thou seek a star with thy swelling crest,
O wave that leavest thy mother's breast?
Dost thou leap from the prisoned depths below
In scorn of their calm and constant flow?
Or art thou seeking some distant land
To die in murmurs upon the strand?

Hast thou tales to tell of pearl-lit deep,
Where the wave-whelmed mariner rocks in sleep?
Canst thou speak of navies that sunk in pride
Ere the roll of their thunder in echo died?
What trophies, what banners, are floating free
In the shadowy depths of that silent sea?

It were vain to ask, as thou rollest afar,
Of banner, or mariner, ship or star;
It were vain to seek in thy stormy face
Some tale of the sorrowful past to trace.
Thou art swelling high, thou art flashing free,
How vain are the questions we ask of thee!

I too am a wave of a stormy sea;
I too am a wanderer, driven like thee;
I too am seeking a distant land
To be lost and gone ere I reach the strand.
For the land I seek is a waveless shore,
And they who once reach it shall wander no more.

STORY OF AN INFAMOUS DOUGHFACE.—Two brothers, Massachusetts-born men, had been in business together for many years previous to the attack upon Fort Sumter, one, the elder, residing in New Orleans, the other in one of our northern cities. The duty of the Northern partner was simply to buy goods at the North and send them to New Orleans, where they were sold by the other partner who, of course, received and had control of the proceeds. After the attack upon Fort Sumter, business at New Orleans having gone down, it was deemed by the brothers advisable to dissolve their business connection, which was accordingly done. The share of the partnership property which belonged to the northern partner was $40,000. But all the assets of the firm were, of course, in New Orleans, where the goods were sold. Now, what does this honest, conscientious merchant—now of the South, but born and educated in Massachusetts—do in this case? Does he send on to his brother a draft for the amount of the partnership property which that brother helped to create? Not a bit of it—not a single copper does he send. But instead he sits down and writes a very cool letter to his late partner, telling him he has the money in bank and intends to keep it there. He is not going to furnish Northern abolitionists funds with which to make war upon the South, not he! And so he leaves his loving brother without a dime in his pocket, without business, and almost a beggar.

And this is not all. There is another brother at the North, a younger one still, who was in no way connected in business with the firm. This brother had in bank $12,000, the savings of many years of hard toil and frugality. There was at one time a tightness in the money market, the firm were unexpectedly "hard up," and in their dilemma applied to this younger brother for temporary relief. Without a moment's hesitation, the whole sum in bank, to the last dollar, was handed over to them, and they were thus enabled to go through their crisis without the least inconvenience to their business. This debt of honor is also repudiated by the New Orleans brother, on the same grounds as the other. When brothers swindle brothers in this infamous manner, what ought we not to expect from other men who are not connected by such close ties of relationship with their Northern creditors?

A SAVAGE HOG.—A correspondent of the Napa Reporter says that quite a serious accident happened to a little daughter of Dr. J. T. Brown, of Napa Valley, on the 25th November. While the child was playing in the yard she was seized by the right hand by a large hog that had been allowed the liberty of the yard for two years or more. The hog was very gentle, and the children were in the habit of feeding her with bread and scraps from the table from their hands. The screams of the child soon brought the mother to her rescue. The hog was making off with the child as fast as she could. The mother made battle on the hog with a club, and after repeated blows rescued the child from a horrible death. The hog had tasted human blood, and its ferocity knew no bounds; it now attacked the mother of the child with all the rancor of its nature, and it was not without hard fighting that she escaped into the house with the child. But the most curious part is yet to be related. The hog has not failed to attack every person she meets; she is now chained to a strong post to await her sentence, which of course is death. Can the animal be affected with hydrophobia? Time will show. The wound of the hand is very [illegible], and the child may lose a finger.

Arise and defend it! ye sons of the brave,

SATURDAY MORNING, DEC. 21, 1861.

Teachings of History.

The Advertiser contains a communication under this head, the object of which seems to be to throw upon "the Administration at Washington" the responsibility of the rebellion which now exists in this country. We take it upon ourselves to say that the writer who will assert that "the Administration at Washington" is in any manner responsible for this rebellion, states what every man in this country of ordinary intelligence knows to be untrue.

This rebellion was organized before this administration went into power, and a large number of States had withdrawn from the Union and had raised armies to coerce the government into an acknowledgement of their independence before the present administration was inaugurated. They knew that it could not be obtained without war and they had raised and were raising troops and means for carrying on that war.

Men of the democratic party who were anxious to effect peace and a restoration of the government, applied to the confederate government and to its leading friends, to ascertain on what terms this could be done, and were told "if a blank paper was furnished them, they would not write the terms." It was in view of these facts—of the march of armies to seize the capitol and its archives—that Mr. Crittenden introduced his resolution into the House, and which received the votes of all but two members—declaring that this war was forced upon the government by States in rebellion and it was the duty of the government to sustain itself by using all the means within its control.

Such are in brief, the facts presented in the first three months of the rebellion; and no man will deny them who is not hostile to our government and to its existence.

The writer to whom we have referred quotes the following from Professor Smyth's lectures on history, delivered some fifty years ago, as containing sentiments worthy of being applied to the present and past condition of things in the United States:

"It was easy to cry out faction, treason and rebellion, and thus to kindle irritation on one side and a rancorous spirit on the other, till the breach was past healing, but it was not easy to conquer a people, borne down by wrongs, which they were determined to redress. Their hearts might have been subdued, and their affections won, not by coercion and harshness, but by mild treatment, and a due regard to their rights."

What application has this to the past or present history of this country? The party of which the South composed a part with short exceptions, had had entire rule and control in this government for the last sixty years. The cry of faction, treason, rebellion did not come from the minority; and if it had, would not have been regarded. The rancorous spirit was fanned and encouraged in the South by their own people until they flogged and hung northern people at their pleasure, while their own citizens were safe at all times in visits of pleasure or business or in making their permanent residences, at the North. This was long the practice of Southern people before they took up arms against the government. The quotation still proceeds, that the Southern people were justified in appealing to arms by wrongs inflicted upon them by the law-making and law administering powers,—which powers were themselves!—and that they were determined to redress evils, which, if there were any, were of their own creation! And it is repeated for our admonition, that a "due regard to the rights of the rebels," might have subdued their hearts, but that they cannot be subdued by coercion.

The whole tenor of the communication in the Advertiser—like most of the selected articles in that paper and many of its editorials—is to justify the present rebellion; and we venture to say, that if the author of the article under notice would unmask, every citizen would recognize him as one of Jeff. Davis' men.

He believes that the "wrongs" inflicted upon the South justified their rebellion; that our government should not attempt to coerce the rebels, but suffer them to proceed as they choose, in conquering States of this Union, and in establishing an independent government. Such men there are among us. They are traitors to our government. They are not of us, and if they seek our good they will leave us and go where their principles, prejudices and wishes, will be appreciated.

They may rest assured, however, that our government will stand "as our fathers made it," and that a lesson will be given to the unprincipled traitors who have deluged our country in blood that will not be forgotten by them or their descendants, for a century to come.

We are aware that there are men, traitors in heart, flitting about like birds of the night, who are endeavoring, in stealthy ways, to poison the public mind against our government and its measures for suppressing this rebellion: but they cannot always hope to remain under a cover of darkness. Even now they are probably better understood, than they are aware of, and the time may come when they will stand before the community in their true characters.

It is moral perfidy in any man, more especially one of another profession, to use the venerated name of "MARSHAL," in disguise to aid him in discriminating sentiments of treason.

The first Printing Press West of the Rocky Mountains.

On the 2d of March, 1839, Edwin O. Hall, then printer of the Honolulu Mission under the auspices of the "American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions," and since editor of the Polynesian, accompanied by his wife, sailed from the Sandwich Islands for the Presbyterian Mission on the Clearwater river, in what was then Oregon, but now Washington Territory, in charge of Rev. H. H. Spaulding, bringing a printing press, font of types, paper, ink, materials, binding apparatus, &c., &c., to the value of five hundred hundred dollars, or thereabouts.

Mr. Hall arrived in the Columbia river on the 23d of April of that year, and proceeded with all dispatch to the said station, which he reached, together with the press, early in May, 1839, and soon thereafter commenced the printing of elementary spelling books in the Nez Perces and Flathead languages, which were adopted and used by the various Mission Schools.

The Mission in charge of Mr. Spaulding, and at which said press was established, was located on the river Clearwater, about one hundred and twenty-five miles north-east of Old Fort Walla Walla, among the Nez Perces Indians. This river was called by the Rev. Mr. Parker, Koots-Koosie, or Little Water.

Dr. Whitman, under date of March 27th, 1840, thus writes from Waiilatpu near Walla Walla, so well remembered as the scene of the "Whitman Massacre:" "The book, which at the annual meeting of the Mission, I was appointed to write, I employed Mr. Smith and Mr. Rogers to write, as being better qualified to do it than myself, and so much of my time being taken up in making medical calls for the Mission. It is now printed, and makes a fine addition to our means of instruction, and must supercede the one first written, as it is more correct in language and orthography. It contains fifty-two pages, and an edition of eight hundred copies has been printed."

In the Spring of 1840, Mr. Hall and his lady, after having established the first press, and printed the first book, in the Pacific American Possessions, returned to the Sandwich Islands.

I have thus given a historical notice of the establishment of the first printing press, and its inceptive labors. Will not some reader of the Oregonian, familiar with the early history of Oregon and especially of the Mission, trace the history of this press, what became of it, and then follow it with a chronological notice of the establishment of the various journals in Oregon and Washington?

LIKENESS OF COL. BAKER.—We are indebted to Mr. F. C. Snow, San Francisco, for a lithographic likeness of the late Senator Baker, published by Mr. Snow. It is copied from an oil painting, and is the only good likeness we have seen of the deceased Senator. Mr. McCormick, of this city, has copies of this lithograph for sale.

SOUTHERN MAIL.—There has been no communication since the flood.

THE EFFECT SOUTH.—The calculation that successful attacks on the Southern seaboard would be followed by the demoralization of the rebel army in Virginia has proved correct. The most intense excitement and alarm prevail throughout the cotton States, and such consternation has been wrought among the troops from the Carolinas, Georgia, Alabama and Louisiana, along the line of the Potomac, that they declare they will leave Virginia to her fate, and, for the [illegible] purpose of saving a general rout, the rebel commanders have been compelled to [illegible] to the advancing columns from Washington, with the clearly ultimate intention of retreating to Tennessee. We think there can be no doubt that the rebels are convinced that it would be certain destruction to remain on the Potomac. Immense armies are gathering in south-eastern Kentucky and eastern Tennessee, to cut off the rebel communications with the cotton States; while there is also every indication that North Carolina, as soon as her loyal citizens can procure arms and ammunition, will establish a hostile force in the direct rear of the Confederates.—S. F. Herald.

Caleb Cushing, in a late speech, said: "Much as I resisted the present administration as it was coming into power, I here declare that whatsoever has been said of me, or thought of me to the contrary, I have from the 4th of March, 1861, sunk all opposition. And let me tell you on this 17th day of September, that but one thing remains to the United States, we must crush out this rebellion."

All traitors in the North talk of peace. They would force our government to ground their arms and let the rebels march in triumph over the country. George M. Dallas, in Philadelphia, said of these men; "What! yield to the rebels! Give up our Constitution, our Union? The stigma of such an act is so groveling, dastardly and degenerate, so utterly un-American, that it would cover us for ages as with a pall. We should cease to be men if we crouched at the feet of these rebels. Fight we must, fight à l'outrance, those whom we have heretofore fostered and taught how to fight, drive them from their infatuated and parricidal purpose of destroying their own country; and pause only when that country, its Union and Constitution, are inaccessible to outrage."

Of Toys, to suit all ranks and ages;
Selected with a critic eye,
To amuse the young as well as sages.
For teasers there is a Juggler's Cup
That fullest seems when nothing's in it;
And Nine-Pins set, like systems, up
To be knocked down the following minute.
We've Kaliedscopes, of fancy make,
Like sinners old, or politicians,
That turn about with every shake,
In hopes to better their condition.
Teetotums we've for patriots got,
Who court the mob with antics humble;
Like theirs the patriot's dizzy lot,
A glorious spin and then a tumble.

CITY.

The Public School Examinations—Second Day.—The Examination yesterday was well attended by ladies and gentlemen, who seemed quite interested in the exercises. We are sorry that for want of space we are unable to do justice to such an important institution as the public school of this city; but we must say that if the parents of the scholars labor half as hard as do the teachers of the school, their children would reap great benefits. The forenoon yesterday was occupied in the examination of the higher classes, in arithmetic and algebra. In the afternoon Miss Sarah White read the productions in the 'Young Ladies' Journal,' edited by the young female students, and Master Ankeny read the paper entitled the 'Radiator,' and edited by the male students belonging to the higher department. Both journals evinced considerable merit, and reflects credit on the youthful writers. The declamations by the different pupils were good. The dialogue by thirteen young misses, entitled the "Model School," one of the misses acting as teacher, and a young man as director, was acted, the humorous nature of which quite interested old as well as young present. The singing and reciting in concert by the intermediate departments could not be beat anywhere. Masters Burton, Gleason, Robertson, Sampson, Barrel and Hendee, each of which must not have been over six years old, made quite handsome speeches. At the conclusion of the exercises, the scholars presented the School Directors with a Christmas cake, for which Mr. Holman and Mr. Failing thanked them with very stirring remarks, and divided the cake among the children.

Justices' Court. — Anthony Tounge, a countryman, appeared before Justice Barr yesterday, and made an affidavit to the effect that he had been on a little spree the night before, on which occasion he was robbed of his money. A man by the name of William Williams was arrested, against whom some of the testimony tended to show that he was one of the party concerned in the affair, and His Honor bound him over in the sum of one hundred dollars to appear at the next term of the Circuit Court, to answer the charge. He deposited the amount required as security.

Agricultural Address.—Dr W. H. Watkins will deliver an address to-morrow afternoon at one o'clock at the Court House, before the Multnomah County Agricultural Society, and such other persons as may be present. A general attendance is invited.

Company C, of Col. Cornelius' Oregon Regiment of Volunteer Cavalry, was mustered into service in this city yesterday, and were immediately sent into quarters at Vancouver.

There was no quorum at the Council last night.

Later from the Columbia River—Further from Powder River.—From Mr. L. Day, Tracy & Co.'s Express Messenger, who arrived last night on the Julia, we learn that he brought $30,000 in gold dust; also, that news had been received from Powder river that diggings had been struck at that locality paying from ten to twenty ounces per day to the hand, and that the gold is very coarse, much resembling the California gold.

A young man had accidentally been shot at the Dalles on Wednesday last.

There was no connection with the boats above Walla Walla.

A letter from New Orleans says: "It will be a glorious sight to see our victorious army and navy again banishing terror and dismay from the Union men now so wretchedly existing there, and it will also be soul stirring to once more gaze upon her broad levee covered with products of the rich valley of the Father of Waters and over all floating that glittering emblem of our country's glory—our old Stars and Stripes."

Booty.—The Mountaineer tells the story that a miner, while on his way to Salmon river, struck rich diggings, and that having no bag for his gathered gold, he filled one of his India-rubber boots with it, and at the last dates was filling the other, which done he intended to come below and spend the winter. The miner who gave this account to the Mountaineer, vouches for its correctness.

The Statesman mentions a rumor that there has been trouble with the Indians at the Siletz Reservation. Rumor here goes so far as to say that the Indians have compelled the whites to take refuge in the block houses. We shall soon learn the truth of these rumors.

The Company of Oregon Cavalry enrolled at Salem, have been mustered into [illegible]

Swett's Grape Bitters, or Restorative Wine, manufactured under the supervision of Mrs. A. M. Swett, the celebrated Clairvoyant Physician, and prepared from [illegible] the pure juice of the California Grape—a certain remedy for [illegible] Debility, Fullness, Costiveness [illegible] Appetite, Impure Breath, &c., and all [illegible] Weakness [illegible] DANIEL SWETT, Pr [illegible] San Francisco. aug26tm

Coughs.—[illegible] Pulmonary, Bronchial and Asthmatic Affections [illegible] has proved that simple remedies act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease [illegible] should at once be had to Brown's Bronchial Troches, or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. Public Speakers and Singers will find them effectual for clearing and strengthening the voice. See advertisement.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of Dr. L. J. Czapkay is already secured in a position which places it as well as its proprietor far above the insults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Ricord is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of his age in Europe, and Dr. Czapkay has fully equalled him in this country, as a proof of which the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma and the honorary Academic degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, for more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases in which he has become so great an expert that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biography are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures, in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address L. J. CZAPKAY, M. A curious scene took place one night in the Paris Royal. Two Spaniards, with one of their countrywomen, were strolling along the galleries, when the lady, neatly rolling a cigarette, began to smoke. The unusual sight of a woman indulging in the fumes of tobacco coram populi attracted a crowd, and a man actually came up and asked the lady for a light, in the most offensive manner. One of her companions immediately knocked him down. The crowd applauded him, and shouted "served him right."

The ladies of Kentucky talk like patriots. In a communication to the Louisville Journal they say: "The storm is very violent and the wild waves beat madly about our tottering ship, but even in the darkness and gloom we can pray that 'Our Father' will ever bless those who are struggling for our liberty, our happiness, and our stronghold of safety, the glorious Union, which has been so long blessed of Heaven and enjoyed by men."

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY'S

Private Medical & Surgical Institute,

[illegible]

Pains in the Bones and Ankles, diseases of the Throat, Nose and Eyes, Ulcers upon the Body or Limbs, Cancers, Dropsy, Epileptic Fits, St. Vitus Dance, and all diseases arising from a derangement of the sexual organs, such as Nervous Trembling, Loss of Memory, Loss of Power, General Weakness, Dimness of Vision, with peculiar spots appearing before the eyes, Loss of Sight, Wakefulness, Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Eruptions upon the Face, Pains in the Back and Head, Female Irregularities—and all improper discharges of both sexes. It matters not from what cause the disease originated, however long standing or obstinate the case, recovery is certain, and in a shorter time than a permanent cure can be effected by any other treatment, even after the disease has baffled the skill of eminent physicians, and resisted all their means of cure. The medicines prescribed are pleasant, without odor, entirely vegetable, causing no sickness, and free from mercury or balsam. During fifteen years of practice in Europe, the Atlantic States and California, I have rescued from the jaws of death many thousands, who, in the last stages of the above-mentioned diseases, had been given up to die by their physicians, which warrants me in promising to the afflicted, who may place themselves under my care, a speedy and permanent cure. Private diseases are the greatest enemies to health, as they are the first cause of consumption, scrofula, and many other diseases, and should be a terror to the human family. A permanent cure is scarcely ever effected—a majority of cases falling into the hands of incompetent persons, who not only fail to cure the disease, but ruin the constitution, filling the system with mercury, which, with the disease, hastens the suffer into a rapid consumption. But should the disease and the treatment not cause death speedily, and the victim marries, the disease is entailed upon the children, who are born with feeble constitutions, and the current of life corrupted by a virus which betrays itself in scrofula, tetter, ulcers, eruptions and other affections of the skin, eyes, throat and lungs, entailing upon them a brief existence of suffering, and consigning them to an early grave.

Self-abuse is another formidable enemy to health, for nothing else in the dread catalogue of human [illegible] causes so destructive a drain upon the system, drawing its thousands of victims through a few years of suffering down to an untimely grave. It destroys the nervous system, rapidly wastes away the energies of life, causes mental derangement, prevents the proper development of the system, disqualifies for marriage, society, business, and all earthly happiness, and leaves the sufferer wrecked in body and mind, predisposed to consumption and a train of evils more to be dreaded than death itself. With the fullest confidence I assure the unfortunate victims of self-abuse, that a permanent and speedy cure can be effected, and with the abandonment of ruinous practices, my patients can be restored to robust, vigorous health.

Irregularities, and all diseases of males and females, treated on principles established by fifteen years of practice, and sanctioned by thousands of the most remarkable cures. Medicines, with full directions, sent to any part of the State, Oregon and Washington Territory, by patients communicating their symptoms by letter.

All business correspondence strictly confidential. Address DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, Medical Institute, [illegible] street, below Montgomery, opposite Pacific Mail S[illegible] Co.'s Office, San Francisco.

Remarkable Instance of Medical Skill.

Below we publish the certificates of three of the [illegible] from the pangs of disease, who, having recovered their former health, and impelled by gratitude, make known their cases and remedial agent, and their statements are authenticated by a Notary Public. The dependency of society imperiously command their publicity, and we commend their perusal to the attention of all afflicted.

Certificate.—The undersigned, desirous of [illegible] those who may be unfortunate enough to be similarly afflicted, where a permanent relief of their sufferings may be obtained, feels it his duty to thus publicly express his sincere gratitude to Dr. L. J. Czapkay, for the [illegible] recovery of his health. Borne down by the [illegible] symptoms incident to the vicious practices of [illegible] ble passion in youth; depressed in body and mind, [illegible] to perform even the most trifling duty imposed upon the ordinary avocations of life, I sought the advice of many physicians, who at first regarded my disease as of trifling importance—but, alas! after a few weeks, and in some instances, months, of their treatment, I found, to my inexpressible horror, that instead of relief, my symptoms were more alarming in their torture; and being told by some that my disease being principally confined to the brain, [illegible] would be of little consequence, I despaired of ever [illegible] my health, strength, and energy; and as a last resort, and with but a faint hope, called upon Dr. Czapkay, who, after examining my case, prescribed some medicine which almost instantly relieved me of the dull pain and [illegible] in my head. Encouraged by the result, I resolved to place myself immediately under his care, and by a strict obedience to all his directions and advice, my head became clear, and my ideas collected, the constant pain in my back and groins, the weakness of my limbs, the nervous reaction of my whole body on the slightest alarm or excitement, the [illegible] and evil forebodings, the self-distrust and want of [illegible] in others, the incapability to study, and want of [illegible] the frightful, exciting, and at times pleasurable [illegible] night, followed by involuntary discharges, have all disappeared; and in fact, in two months after having [illegible] the doctor, I felt as if inspired by a new life—that life which but a short time ago I contemplated to end by my own hand. With the view to guard the unfortunate from falling into the snares of incompetent quacks, I deem it my duty to offer this testimony to the merit and skill of Dr. Czapkay, and recommend him to all who may stand in need of medical advice, being assured by my own experience, that under his care a radical and permanent cure will be effected.

MARYSVILLE, June 24, 1856.

DR. L. J. CZAPKAY, San Francisco—Sir: I have used the last of your medicine, and do not think I shall need any more, as I feel very well, except that I have not fully got my strength yet, but soon will with the appetite I have. It is just three weeks, you may recollect, since I called at your institute, with my constitution, as I thought, broken entirely, and never thought you would be able to cure me perfectly, but thought you might be able to do something to ease the pain in my back and head, and strengthen my nerves, so that I would not get excited and tremble at everything. Now that you know what I expected, you may judge of my satisfaction at my complete recovery from these symptoms, and the removal of those sores and blotches from my skin, and the ulcers from my throat, and the entire stoppage of those emissions, which you said were principally the cause of my sickness. I can hardly tell you which is the greatest, my joy or my surprise, for except not having fully got my strength, I feel as well as any man can feel.

Enclosed I send you twenty dollars over your charge, and thank myself cheaply cured. If you think anybody will be benefited, you may put this letter in the newspapers. Believe me gratefully yours,

THOMAS HAYDEN.

Thankfulness is the incentive to gratitude.

CERTIFICATE.—Prompted by an honest desire of my heart, I wish to lay before the public a case which deserves a commendation, not only as an act of scientific skill, but that of humanity also. About two years ago, I suddenly, and from causes unknown to me, was seized with a fit of epilepsy, which, owing to my inability to meet the expenses consequent upon a thorough medical treatment, and the discouragement which I met with on attempting it, soon became so fixed [illegible] as to defy the skill of my physician. I was frequently, while in pursuit of my calling, thrown down [illegible] and without the slightest warning, and [illegible] to the agonies. I yet despised the [illegible] of my life, and soon learned to look upon those who would [illegible] me from danger, as enemies [illegible] the existence of my miserable [illegible] to my affliction [illegible] was induced to attempt [illegible] and by recommendation, called [illegible] him of my circumstances [illegible] services, regardless [illegible] my case, and with [illegible] restored to perfect [illegible] which I enjoy it [illegible] my indebtedness, I consider it [illegible] the case public, in [illegible] may find a physician [illegible]
